Child Supervision Guidelines

It is the responsibility of every parent and guardian in this community to provide a safe and healthy environment for children. While all children should be supervised, different degrees of supervision are required, depending on the age and maturity level of the child. The following are specific requirements:

Never leave children 5 years of age or younger unsupervised or unattended and they should never be left unattended in a parked vehicle. Children between 6 and 9 years of age should be closely monitored (within sight and/or sound) by a parent or responsible party, both while in housing and in public areas (e.g. shopping areas and parking lots). While going to and from school, supervised after-school activities, or Sunday school, this level of supervision may not be practical, however, these children should still receive appropriate supervision while in transit to and from these activities.

In addition, children between 10 and 12 years of age may be left without direct supervision for reasonable periods of time; however, indirect supervision, such as frequent call-ins by either parent or child or occasional checks by adult neighbors or friends, should be provided. These children should be carefully rehearsed in procedures to follow in the event of an emergency, contacting parents, military police or fire department. Children 13 years of age or older require varying degrees of supervision depending upon demonstrated maturity and levels of self-discipline and personal responsibility. Children under 16, however, should have adult supervision overnight. Children with special physical, mental and emotional needs must be supervised consistent with their developmental level.

Remember that children are defined as those 17 years old and younger. Parents are defined as natural or step-parents, guardians or sponsors of family members under 18 years. Baby-sitters are defined as responsible persons over 13 years of age or a 12-year old who has completed the American Red Cross baby-sitters course.

When direct parental supervision cannot be provided, alternative child care should be utilized (e.g. child development center, family child care, baby-sitter or adult friends/neighbors. For more info check the Commander Policy Letter on the 6th ASG website.
